

to represent all engineering system which may be found, It illustrates the differing types
 The material strength of these units varies and the installation in any given door should be checked to ensure that fitment of a particular type is suitable to fulfil the required resistance

Manufacturers can provide installation information for comparison

