Dear

I have always said that the concept of the full tie is good for people to get into the industry providing it is not abused. Recent publicity has prompted me to write my experience with Enterprise Inns. After my first pub leasing 10 years ago, my second 7 years ago of a high profile pub, I was helped partly by way of a loan from Enterprise. On a low start rent and a full tie giving me help to get established within the business. From then on the more beer we sell benefits both myself and Enterprise. I have also found Enterprise helpful in reducing rents for struggling businesses and deducting beer prices to increase trade. There are also lots more initiatives that Enterprise promote to help businesses. My feelings are the biggest help for the hospitality industry at the moment would be for the government to reduce VAT to 5%. I am hopeful for the future with Enterprise and look forward to pushing my business forward.

Kind regards
