Subject: "Re: Government Consultation Pub Companies and Tenants April 2013"

Rt Hon Dr Vince Cable, Secretary of State for Business, Innovation and Skills, Dept for Business, Innovation and Skills Dear sirs After many years of fighting with pub co's I must now say that punch taverns seemed to have turned a corner and are starting to help and assist their tenants. I thought I would be the last person singing their praises but credit were it is due, I have been a tenant at for 13 and a half years now, and with Punch for plus of them, it was hard at first as I just felt like another brick in their wall and they didn't seem to care whether I made a living or not.

But after several fights and changes to their team I have received re dec's and help when most needed in these hard times.

I cannot sell my beer at the same low prices as the local shops or supermarkets but I sell in a comfortable and controlled environment where sensible drinking is enforced for the pleasure and comfort of everyone, which includes the police not having to clear up young drunks off the streets with their cheap booze from local shops etc.

Please do what needs to be done to help save the great British pub, Punch Taverns have, we now need you !

Yours sincerely
