To whom it may concern:-

I currently run a tenanted pub and I am worried about what is going to happen if more real tape is introduced around the pub industry.

I have a good relationship with my Landlord Admiral Taverns and they have always treated me fairly.

I have just signed a new year tenancy which includes refurbishment works financed by Admiral. Without the tenancy model I would have struggled to finance this myself. People don't usually write in when they are happy with things but please take my views into account.

Yours Sincerely
