
From:
Sent: 14 June 2013 12:04
To: Pubs Consultation Responses

1121.

Friday 14th June 2013

To whom this may concern,

Regarding the various utterings in the press recently regarding the module that some of us trade under, quite frankly I think this is the best way to operate a pub.

Having being a publican for some 42 years and over those years I have owned and operated 24 different public houses varying from free houses to leases and to tenancys, I dont quite see what all thw quibbleing is about as when people enter into a agreement with any freeholder the details of the rent and the specific prices on beer purchases are laid before them. No one holds a gun to there head and makes them sign, it is there own free decision.

Yours sincerley

This email was received from the INTERNET.

Communications via the GSi may be automatically logged, monitored and/or recorded for legal purposes.
