MOD unveils facilities contract for South East England

Defence Infrastructure Organisation (DIO) has unveiled a new contract for the future provision of facilities management at military establishments across the South East of England, and has begun inviting industry to submit expressions of interest.

Developed under the Next Generation Estate Contracts (NGEC) programme, the Regional Prime South East covers MOD sites in Hampshire, Berkshire, Buckinghamshire, Oxfordshire, Sussex, Surrey, Kent and Greater London. It has an estimated value of up to £1.2 billion over a minimum of five years and a maximum of 10 years, depending on potential contract extensions.

The successful bidder will provide maintenance and repairs to the Defence estate. Other services will include a 24/7 helpdesk for estate-users, a regional energy management bureau, grounds maintenance, and snow and ice clearance. The contract also includes options for land management services and construction projects valued below £3.93m.

The Regional Prime South East will replace the existing prime contract for this region. It will cover around 60 defence establishments, including RMA Sandhurst, DMRC Headley Court, HQ Land Forces Andover, Hyde Park Barracks, Woolwich Barracks, Horse Guards, RAF High Wycombe and RAF Northolt.

Steve Rice, the NGEC programme director, said:

"Supporting our Armed Forces as they prepare for operations is the top priority for DIO, and the stewardship of first-class facilities is central to fulfilling that aim. This major contract will be critical to delivering military capability in future, and we are determined to find the right industry partner capable of meeting the standards expected by our military customers. The successful bidder will need innovative ideas and flexibility to meet the evolving needs of the Defence frontline."

Duncan Stock, the contract project manager, said:

"This contract covers a significant geographical area including some key bases that are vital to the delivery of military capability, and sites of historic interest. The challenge for industry will be managing such a huge range of activities across offices, technical facilities, garrisons and training bases. It requires excellent supply chain companies, supported by an excellent prime contractor."

The incoming prime contractor will be required to operate project bank accounts (PBAs), ensuring prompt 'fair payment' to all suppliers and subcontractors.

The contract tender notice for Regional Prime South East has been issued via the OJEU Tender Electronic Daily (TED) service (ted.europa.eu), the Government Contracts Finder, and the Defence Contracts Online (DCO) facility. It is expected that this will be published in the next few days.

The closing date for expression of interest is 23:59hrs on 23 March 2012.

Following expressions of interest, DIO will issue Pre-Qualification Questionnaires and host an industry day at a venue and date to be confirmed.

DIO has also issued contract notices for two parallel contracts, Regional Prime Central and Regional Prime South West.
