

Pension Flexibility 2015

Who is likely to be affected?

- Individuals who have reached the normal minimum pension age, (normally age 55), who have money purchase pension savings in a registered pension scheme or non-UK pension scheme;
- Individuals with drawdown pensions;
- Beneficiaries of people who have died with pension savings in a registered pension scheme or non-UK pension scheme;
- · Scheme administrators of registered pension schemes; and
- · Scheme managers of non-UK pension schemes.

General description of the measure

A number of changes are being made to pension tax rules to reflect the greater flexibility individuals will have to access their pension savings from age 55. The changes will:

- allow all of the funds in a money purchase arrangement to be taken as an authorised taxed lump sum, removing the higher unauthorised payment tax charges;
- increase the flexibility of the income drawer on the by removing the maximum 'cap' on withdrawal and minimum income equire pents for all new drawdown funds from 6 April 2015;
- enable those with 'capped' drawdown to convert to a new flexible drawdown fund once arranged with their scheme shoul they wish;
  enable pension schemes to make payments directly from pension savings with 25
- enable pension schemes to make payments directly from pension savings with 25 per cent taken tax-free (instead of a tax-free lump sum);
- introduce a limited right or scheme trustees and managers to override their scheme's rules to pay lex ble pensions and lump sums from money purchase pension savings;
- remove some restrictions alifetime annuity payments;
- ensure that individe the do not exploit the new system to gain unintended tax advantages by producing a reduced annual allowance for money purchase savings where the individual has flexibly accessed their savings;
- increase he in vinum value and scope of trivial commutation lump sum death benefit.
- provide new information requirements to ensure that individuals who have flexibly accessed meir pension savings are aware of the tax consequences of doing so;
  - re trick and reduce certain tax charges that apply to death benefits;
  - enable persons other than dependents to inherit unused drawdown funds and covide that where the death occurred before age 75, lump sum death benefits and drawdown pension from these funds can be paid tax free, subject to the member having sufficient available lifetime allowance;
- allow annuities paid to a beneficiary on the death of the member before age 75 to be paid tax free; and,
- make changes to the rules for individuals who have received UK tax relief in respect of pension savings in non-UK pension schemes, so that the flexibilities and restrictions to relief will apply equally to them.

Policy objective

These measures make the tax system fairer by ensuring people have more choice about how they access their money purchase pension savings. They also make changes to prevent this new flexibility being exploited by individuals to gain a tax advantage.

Background to the measure

The Government announced at Budget 2014 proposals to allow people aged 55 and above, from April 2015, access to their money purchase pension savings as they wish during retirement, subject to their marginal rate of income tax.

A consultation document Freedom and Choice in Pensions published on 19 March 2014, sout the Government's proposals for reform and invited comments on the proposals.

A summary of responses to the consultation was published on 21 July 2014.

Draft legislation was published on 6 August 2014 for a 4 week technical consultation

A further announcement in relation to death benefits was made on 29 Se tember 2014.

The Taxation of Pensions Bill was introduced to Parliament on 144 ctobes 2014

The Government announced at Autumn Statement 2014, further charges in relation to death benefits.

This Tax Information and Impact Note (TIIN) updays the TIIN published on 7 November 2014.

Current law

Registered pension schemes are tax-advantaged vehicles intended to encourage saving for retirement. The legislation is mainly set out in Part 4 of Finance Act (FA) 2004 and supporting regulations.

Types of Arrangement

An arrangement is defined by the type of benefits that will ultimately be provided from the arrangement (section 152 FA 2004). There are three main types of benefits that can be provided, defined benefits, cash balance benefits or other money purchase benefits (after known as defined contribution benefits). Where defined benefits are payable this is a defined benefit arrangement, where cash balance or other money purchase benefits are payable, this is a money purchase arrangement.

Authorised Payments

Section 164 FA 2004 details payments that a registered pension schelle is Juthorised to make to or in respect of members. These include the payment of pensions to members and dependants under sections 165 and 167 respectively. For money precious pension savings, pensions can be paid as:

- a scheme pension pension paid by the scheme administrator, or an insurance company selected by the scheme administrator payable for life and except in certain specified circumstances cannot reduce;
- a lifetime annuity an annuity paid for life or, if heater, a guaranteed period of up to 10 years, for which the member had the proportunity to select the insurance company and which except in certain specified circumstances cannot reduce; or
- a drawdown pension there are two types of drawdown pension, capped drawdown and flexible drawdown.

Capped drawdown

Pension rule 5 in section 165 has less a limit on the amount of drawdown pension that the drawdown pensioner may with draw from their capped drawdown pension arrangement during a drawdown pension year. The current limit is 150 per cent of a value called the 'basis amount'. A draw on pension year is the period of 12 months starting on the anniversary of what the individual first became entitled to the drawdown pension.

The basis are not a defined in Schedule 28 to FA 2004 and in the Registered Pension Schemes (Feleva t Annuities) Regulations 2006, SI 2006/129. The basis amount is also commonly reserved to as the amount of an 'equivalent annuity'.

With a wals are taxed as 'PAYE pension income' under section 683 of the Income Tax (La rhings and Pensions) Act 2003 (ITEPA 2003).

Fixible drawdown

Where a drawdown pensioner (or dependant) meets the flexible drawdown conditions there is no limit on the amount that they can take each year as drawdown pension. One of the required conditions is that the individual is receiving a guaranteed minimum pension income of £12,000 a year.

Members who have entered into flexible drawdown can continue to make contributions to a registered pension scheme in the year after they entered flexible drawdown, but in order to prevent the recycling of withdrawals to obtain further tax relief, section 227A FA 2004 effectively reduces the annual allowance for these members to nil.

Lump Sums

Authorised payments of lump sums to members are set out under section 166 FA 2004 and to lump sums following the member's death in section 168 FA 2004.

Trivial commutation

A trivial commutation lump sum can be paid when the member is 60 or over and the total value of their pension rights under all registered pension schemes is no more than the commutation limit, and the lump sum extinguishes all of the rights the member has under the scheme. The current trivial commutation limit is £30,000.

Small pots

The Registered Pension Schemes (Authorised Payments) Regulations 2005 ($1,2009/1171) allow for up to three small personal pension funds of £10,000 or less to be paid out as lump sums. Also a lump sum can be paid where, were it not for the fact that the lump sum would not extinguish all of the rights under the scheme because of an appulity is payment, the lump sum could have been paid as a trivial commutation lump sum. There is no limit on the number of lump sums up to £10,000 that may be paid out of an accupational pension scheme.

Pension commencement lump sums

A tax-free lump sum, known as the pension commencement lump sum ('PCLS'), can be paid in connection with the member becoming entitled to a pension. Aside from the temporary changes mentioned in the paragraph below, he PCLS must be paid no more than six months before the member becomes entitled to the associated pension and no more than 12 months after the entitlement to the associated pension arises. The PCLS must be paid from the same scheme as the associated pension. Paragraphs 1 to 3A of Schedule 29 to FA 2004 set out the conditions for a lump sum a be a PCLS.

Schedule 5 of FA 2014 introduced, number of temporary changes to the PCLS rules where the intended PCLS is paid a for 6 april 2015. These changes allow for a lump sum to be an authorised PCLS where a stitles ont to the associated pension occurs more than six months after payment of the PCLS provided the entitlement to the associated pension arises by 5 October 2015. The diam's sea also allow for the associated pension to be paid from a scheme other bank he scheme from which the PCLS is paid.

Annual allovance

Tax in lef of pension savings to registered pension schemes in respect of an individual is redicted by an annual limit of relief, the annual allowance. With effect from the 2014-15 tax real, the annual allowance is £40,000. Section 227 FA 2004 provides for the annual an wance charge to apply where the individual's total pension input amounts exceed the individual's available annual allowance. The annual allowance charge is charged at the advirdual's marginal tax rate. Unused annual allowance can be carried forward for up to three years.

Death benefits

A registered pension scheme is only allowed to pay out benefits as authorised payments following the death of a scheme member in two forms, either as a pension or as a lump sum benefit. The type of benefits that can be paid depend on the exact circumstances and the type of pension scheme and largely mirror the type of benefits that the member could have had from the scheme before death. Pension death benefits can only be paid to dependants of the member, and are taxable on the recipient at their marginal rate.

International

Where UK pensions tax relief has been provided to individuals who are members of overseas schemes, there are similar limitations to those that exist for registered schemes of the amount of tax relief available, what benefits can be provided from the UK tax relieved savings and information requirements. The legislation broadly puts members of overseas pension schemes who receive UK tax relief in the same position as numbers of UK registered pension schemes.

Proposed revisions

Legislation will be introduced in the Taxation of Pensions Bill 2014 amend FA 2004 and ITEPA 2003, as well as certain regulations made under FA 2004.

Flexi-access drawdown funds

The changes will introduce a distinction between trawdown pension funds created before 6 April 2015, to which the existing rules in Schedule 2. A 2004 may continue to apply, and drawdown pension funds first created on or after 6 April 2015, which are 'flexi-access drawdown funds'. There are no restrictions or the amount of withdrawals that can be made from 'flexi-access drawdown funds'.

The existing rules in Schedule 28 F 200 will apply to funds added on or after 6 April 2015 to drawdown pension funds that were set up before 6 April 2015 but only where they are used for capped drawdown. Uter atively a member with any existing drawdown pension fund may convert it into a leak scess drawdown fund in order to be able to make unrestricted withdrawals of persion from the fund. All existing funds used for pre-6 April 2015 flexible drawdown with automatically become flexi-access drawdown funds.

Uncrystallise furns per in lump sum

To enable people to access flexibly any money purchase pension savings that haven't yet come into promers without first creating a flexi-access drawdown fund, an uncrystallised fund pension tump sum, or UFPLS will be payable. They will be payable only if the individual has lifetime allowance available. 75 per cent of each payment will be taxable as pension a come at the individual's marginal rate of tax and 25 per cent will be tax-free, the acuivagent of a PCLS for each payment. The exception to this is where the savings derive from disqualifying pension credits. They will be taxable in full as a tax-free lump sum may already have been paid in connection with these funds before the pension-sharing order. A payment of an UFPLS will be a benefit crystallisation event.

The money purchase annual allowance

A £10,000 annual allowance for money purchase pension savings will apply to individuals who have accessed their pension savings flexibly from an UFPLS, a flexi-access drawdown fund or a flexible annuity. The £10,000 annual allowance will also apply to payments of a scheme pensions set up on or after 6 April 2015 from a scheme with less than 12 pensioner members.

However, such individuals will retain an annual allowance for defined benefits pension savings of up to £40,000, depending on the value of new money purchase pension savings

The £10,000 annual allowance will not apply to an individual by virtue of their received a small pot lump sum.

Unused annual allowance brought forward from earlier tax years will not be available increase the £10,000 annual allowance for money purchase pension savings.

New rules for calculating the value of savings in hybrid arrangements for the urpos of the money purchase annual allowance will be introduced, but these rules will not apply to arrangements that existed as hybrid arrangements before 15 October 201

Reporting requirements

New reporting requirements for scheme administrators and individuals are being introduced to ensure that where an individual has flexibly accessed their persion savings;

- schemes of which they are a member a laware of this;
- the individual gets the right information of declare on their self assessment tax return and calculate the annual anowance charge due; and
- HM Revenue and Customs is rovided with sufficient information to ensure the right amount of tax is paid.

Death Benefits

individual can inherit unused drawdown funds or Changes are being made so an uncrystallised money purchase s on the death of the member, where those funds are used to provide a drawdown, sion or pay a lump sum death benefit. For someone who is not a dependant, there with the antew nominee's flexi-access drawdown fund. In addition any beneficiary (that is, nt or a nominee) with unused drawdown funds on their death successor to be designated to provide a drawdown pension for can pass the ds to that individua cessor's flexi-access drawdown fund) or to be paid as a lump sum death benef

Where the death of the member or beneficiary occurred before age 75 any payments of it can without wal to the beneficiary or successor can be made tax-free providing the funds at designated within a two-year period. A new BCE will be introduced, to test any encry tallised funds on the death of the member that are designated within the two-year period to a dependant's or nominee's flexi-access drawdown fund where the member dies under age 75. Any excess in consequence of this BCE will be subject to the lifetime blowance charge. Where the designation is not made within two years, or the member has reached age 75 at the time of their death, all payments of drawdown pension will be subject to the recipient's marginal rate, but will not be tested against the lifetime allowance.

Similar changes are also being made in respect of annuities so that pension death benefits from money purchase arrangements in the form of an annuity can be paid to anyone, not just a dependant, and that payments from the annuity can be made tax free where the member died before age 75.

The requirement for certain lump sums death benefits to be paid as authorised payments within a two-year period will be removed. However lump sums not paid within this period will be taxable at the recipient's marginal rate.

International

Changes are being made to FA 2004 to give HM Revenue and Customs powers to make regulations requiring scheme managers of qualifying recognised overseas pension schemes (QROPS) or former QROPS, to provide information about the scheme.

A number of consequential changes are made to FA 2004 and ITEPA 2003 to explicit QROPS to make authorised payments to members from uncrystallised funds, the equivalent to an UFPLS.

Miscellaneous changes

Other changes to FA 2004 will:

- allow lifetime annuities to reduce as well as increase in alue however where an individual is paid an annuity that can reduce of a than in prescribed circumstances, this will trigger the money purchase annual a lowance so that they;
- remove the maximum ten-year guarantee period for lifetime annuities, which enables annuities to continue to be paid after the member's death:
- reduce the age limit for taking trivial composition and small pot lump sums from age 60 to the normal minimum pension (ge (currently 55), or when the ill-health condition has been met in relation to the in livid al, if earlier;
- amend the definition of a trivial commutation lump sum so that they will be payable from defined benefits arrangements any and require the lump sum to extinguish the member's entitlement to all defined benefits under the scheme;
- increase the maximum triving mmutation lump sum death benefit to £30,000;
- extend the trivial computation lump sum death benefit rules to allow the remainder of a guarant educension up to a value of £30,000 to be taken as a lump sum on death rather than continue to pay it as a pension;
- remove the facility to be winding-up lump sum death benefits because all such lump sums are also to jal commutation lump sum death benefits;
- provide that while an individual became entitled before 6 April 2006 to what is now a copper diawdown pension and no benefit crystallisation event has yet occurred the amount of lifetime allowance treated as used up by that pension when the lifetime is the maximum drawdown pension payable under that arrangement;
- where at individual becomes entitled to a lifetime annuity before the normal himmum pension age and without the ill-health condition applying, the amount treated as crystallised by that annuity at age 55 will be the higher of the annual rate of the annuity multiplied by twenty and the original value of the sums and assets used to buy the lifetime annuity;
- when an individual under age 55 with a protected pension age transfers benefits in payment as part of a recognised transfer, the transfer won't cause any pension payment made before the member's 55th birthday to be unauthorised; and,
- reduce the rate of the special lump sum death benefits charge, in respect of members who are aged 75 or over at the time of death, and the serious ill-health lump sum charge, from 55 per cent to 45 per cent.

FA 2004 will also be amended to allow scheme trustees and managers to make payments under the new pension flexibility rules, even if not permitted by the scheme rules.

Repeals

Two statutory instruments that would have ceased to have any effect from 6 April 2015 have been repealed:

- The Registered Pension Schemes (Relevant Income) Regulations 201 (SI2011/1783)
- The Registered Pension Schemes (Prescribed Requirements of Fletible Drawdown Declarations) Regulations 2011 (SI2011/1792)

Equalities impacts	These measures will affect individuals age 55 or over and have relatively little impact on other age groups. We would expect these measures to affect proportionately more men than women, disabled people and ethnic minority groups as they are more likely to have pension savings in excess of the trivial commutation limit.  No other impacts are anticipated in respect of groups sharing other protected characteristics.
Impact on businesses and civil society organisations	There will be additional ongoing burdens for pension schemes and employers to provide information and guidance to individuals, and to updat their systems. We anticipate increased numbers of individuals requesting transfers from defined benefits pensions, and increased requests from pension members for information on the value of contributions to the pensions.
	There will also be some one-off burdens for pension schooles and employers including: legal and consultation advice, raining and familiarisation.
Operational impact (£m) (HMRC or other)	The additional costs for HM Revenue and Cust ms in implementing this change are initially estimated to be less than £1 million for changes to various IT systems and £2 million for staff resources.
Other impacts	Small and micro-business assessment: The impact on small and micro businesses has been considered. As the changes are intended to provide individuals with greater flexibility in ow hey take their pension benefits, it would not be appropriate for the measure to apply differently according to the size of the firm.
	Other impacts have been considered and none have been identified.

Monitoring and evaluation

These measures will be kept that review through the monitoring of information collected on tax returns, and tax records.
