FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ACT 2000 REQUEST: FOI 0169-16

Thank you for your email of 08 February 2016 asking for information under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) 2000. You asked:

I found some online information about UK residents' road accidents abroad and general experiences relating to driving:

<http://www.thetravelmagazine.net/i-2777--fco-brits-drive-into-trouble-abroad.html>

<http://www.rac.co.uk/community/blog/rac-blog/september-2010/the-foreign-and-commonwealth-office-s-60-minute-wa>

Both articles refer to research by the FCO, but they do not provide links to the original documents or online sources and I also could not find them on FCO's website.

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) does hold some the information that you have requested. To establish whether we hold the information requested I have checked with Consular's Communications Team.

Disclosure

We have found two documents, a presentation and press release, which are relevant to your request. These documents are attached with this reply.

Publication and Copyright

Once an FOI request is answered, it is considered to be in the public domain. To promote transparency, we may now publish the response and any material released on gov.uk in the FOI releases section. All personal information in the letter will be removed before publishing.

The copies of information being supplied to you continue to be protected by the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988. You are free to use it for your own purposes, including any non-commercial research you are doing and for the purposes of news reporting. Any other re-use, for example commercial publication, would require the permission of the copyright holder. Most documents supplied by the FCO will have been produced by government officials and will be protected by Crown Copyright. To re-use Crown Copyright documents please consult the Open Government Licence v3 on the National Archives website. Information you receive which is not subject to Crown Copyright continues to be protected by the copyright of the person, or organisation, from which the information originated. You must ensure that you gain their permission before reproducing any third party (non-Crown Copyright) information.

You can also find out more about previous FOI replies published on our website at Publications - Inside Government - GOV.UK.

Yours sincerely,

Desk Officer
