UK Open Government Partnership National Action Plan 2016-18: Commitments from the Welsh Government

December 2016

Commitment 1: Open data plan

Develop and implement an open data plan for Welsh Government and work towards achieving the commitments outlined within the plan.

Objective: To develop a plan that outlines Welsh Government's ongoing commitment to open data and increase awareness of open data across Welsh Government.

Status quo: Within Welsh Government we are already striving to increase the accessibility to our data through websites such as Lle and StatsWales. However there is more that can be done to increase the openness and transparency of our data.

There also needs to be greater awareness of the potential opportunities and benefits that open data can provide to the people of Wales, businesses, the public service sector and Welsh Government. Implementation of our Open Data Plan and its commitments should help address these issues.

Ambition: Whilst work is already ongoing in the field of open data within Welsh Government we hope that implementation of this Open Data Plan will raise awareness, consolidate ongoing work and demonstrate Welsh Government's commitment to open data. The plan will hopefully also provide a practical opportunity to work with and encourage public service organisations to increase their publication and use of open data.

Implement commitments outlined within the Welsh Government Open Data Plan	New and ongoing	March 2016	March 2018

Commitment 2: Open data service

Develop an Open Data Service for Wales with a focus on helping improve public services.

Objective: To increase the openness and amount of data about Wales that is published by Welsh Government and other public sector bodies.

Status quo: Only a subset of data about Wales held by Welsh Government and other public sector partners is currently published.

Ambition: Developing an Open Data Service for Wales will increase the accessibility and the amount of data published by Welsh Government and other public sector bodies in Wales. Furthermore making more data openly available will hopefully help improve public services in Wales.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Timeline: March 2016 – March 2017

OGP values: Access to information; Technology and innovation

New or ongoing commitment: Ongoing

Other actors involved - government: Welsh Government initiative publishing data for Wales, some of which may emanate from other government departments.

Other actors involved - CSOs, private sector, working groups, multilaterals: Users have been involved in the development of the StatsWales site, e.g. providing feedback, and being updated in various user forums. This has included our user group covering the third sector.

We're working to allow other public sector partners to publish via StatsWales with their own logo. To date only the Welsh Language Commissioner has done so.

Commitment 3: StatsWales

Develop StatsWales, the Welsh Government's online repository for detailed statistical data, to increase its openness rating to 4*.

Objective: To increase the openness and amount of structured data that is published by Welsh Government and other public sector bodies.

Status quo: Only a subset of data about Wales held by Welsh Government and other public sector partners is currently published. Whilst StatsWales publishes structured data openly there is a need to increase its openness rating.

Ambition: Through this commitment we will improve the openness of data published by Welsh Government, enabling our data to be freely shared and used by others.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Timeline: March 2016 – December 2017

OGP values: Access to information; Technology & innovation

Commitment 4: Administrative Data Research Centre Wales

In partnership with the Administrative Data Research Centre Wales, the Welsh Government will work to ensure that access to government datasets is available in a secure and safe manner for the purposes of academic and public sector research. Furthermore, such access is promoted to maximise the use of such data for research that is published and made available to support better decisions.

Objective: Secure and ethical access to data held by government to accredited academic and public sector researchers in approved safe environments with appropriate controls in place, leading to published research for the public good.

Status quo: To overcome barriers to access to data for academic or public sector research purposes.

Ambition: Through this commitment we will improve the public value of government data by ensuring it is available to use to produce high quality, published, research that will inform public policy and improve the lives of citizens.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Commitment 5: Government Social Research Publication Protocol

Welsh Government will continue to publish government research according to the Government Social Research Publication Protocol, with reports pre-announced and published on the ‘Statistics & Research’ pages of the Welsh Government website. Publication of social research reports, according to the GSR publication protocol, is a key part of the Welsh Government Principles for Research and Evaluation

Objective: To publish research according to the Government Social Research publication protocol.

Status quo: The Government Social Research publication protocol has been adopted to increase the transparency of evidence used by the Welsh Government.

Ambition: Publication of research puts the evidence Government uses in its decisions in the public domain and also provides research findings useful for other public and third sector bodies to inform their own decision making.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government (Social Research and Information Division)

Timeline: While the GSR publication protocol has been in use by Welsh Government since its introduction in 2010, there has been Ministerial commitment to the use of the protocol from March 2014.

OGP values: Access to information; Public accountability

Commitment 6: Gov.Wales

We will make our information and services easier to find and consume by consolidating our digital content on a new Welsh Government website that is focussed on meeting user needs. The site will include an improved consultation service.

Objective: Build a new GOV.WALES to improve access to Welsh Government information and services

Status quo: The Welsh Government publishes information on more than 150 websites. Information is presented inconsistently and is sometimes duplicated. Users do not know whether they have found all Welsh Government information on a particular issue.

Ambition: GOV.WALES will accommodate practically all Welsh Government information and services, making it easier for users to understand what we do and how we are performing. It will provide a clearer picture of the public sector in Wales, increasing accountability by allowing the public to see and access those bodies that are working on their behalf. The new consultations service will provide a better way for the public to participate in our decision-making process.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Timeline: 1 April 2015 – 30 June 2019

OGP values: Access to information; Civic participation; Public accountability

Publish remaining corporate content	New	May 2017	June 2019

Commitment 7: Code of Practice for Ethical Employment in Supply Chains

Welsh Government will develop a code for ethical supply chain behaviour, that will ensure awareness and understanding of actions to mitigate against ethical supply chain issues.

Objective: To achieve high levels of sign-up to 12 commitments aimed at promoting the legal and ethical treatment of workers.

Status quo: Unethical and illegal treatment of workers in public sector supply chains.

Ambition: One ambition of this piece of work is to raise awareness of the prevalence of modern slavery in our supply chains and take actions to address areas of high risk.

Another ambition is to raise and level the playing field in Wales so that suppliers that wish to employ workers ethically are not disadvantaged in bidding for public contracts.

A third ambition is to encourage the more widespread adoption of the Living Wage Foundation's Living Wage (based on the costs of living).

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Timeline: March 2016 – early in 2017

OGP value: Public accountability

New or ongoing commitment: New

Commitment 8: Well-being of Future Generations Act – National Indicators for Wales

To measure progress towards the achievement of the seven well-being goals for Wales set out in the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015, and report on them annually.

Objective: In order to improve the social, economic, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales the Welsh Government has developed a set of National Indicators to measure progress against the 7 well-being goals outlined in the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015. In doing so an open and transparent approach is being taken in the development and communication of the National Indicators and the data that underpins them.

Status quo: Measuring national progress against the seven well-being goals for Wales set out in the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015

Ambition: If we are to collectively achieve the seven well-being goals set out in the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015, we need a way of measuring, at a national level, what progress is being made. The 46 National Indicators for Wales are intended to measure progress against the seven well-being goals and have been prepared following public consultation. They will be reported on annually through a 'Well-being Report for Wales'.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Timeline: March 2016 – early in 2017

Commitment 9: Well-being duty on specified public bodies in Wales

All public bodies, listed in the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015, have a duty to set and publish well-being objectives that outline how they will contribute to achieving each of the well-being goals and take reasonable steps to meet those objectives.

Objective: Requiring public bodies to do things in pursuit of the economic, social, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales in a way that accords with the sustainable development principle; to require public bodies to report on such action.

Status quo: A more consistent approach to the well-being of Wales throughout the Welsh public sector.

Ambition: It will place a legal duty on specified public bodies to take account of the importance of involving people that reflect the diversity of the population in their decision making.

Lead implementing organisation: Welsh Government

Timeline: April 2016 onwards

OGP value: Civic participation

New or ongoing commitment: New legislative commitment under the Well-being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015
