Government Construction

Construction Task Group Core and Affiliate
Membership

March 2012

The work of delivering the Government Construction Strategy has been divided into six work streams with six Task Groups created from volunteers in both the public and private sectors. The work is overseen by the Government Construction Board (GCB), and work directed by Government Construction Steering Committee (GCSC) as shown in the GCB Governance structure on the Cabinet Office webpage. Appropriate links are maintained with complementary Task Groups in the Infrastructure UK organization in HM Treasury.

Task Group 1 – Procurement Lean Client

Key objective is to contribute to the consistent delivery of the range of measures Government will take to reduce construction costs¹ by 15-20% by the end of this parliament, with a particular focus on:

- methodologies for measuring progress in delivering the target to reduce construction costs by 15-20%;
- client skills;
- functional requirement setting;
- performance of existing procurement practices and alternatives;
- new models of procurement; and
- the effectiveness of frameworks and best use of routes to market.

¹ Construction Costs are defined as total project capital costs including related front end project initiation / development costs - such as consultancy and supply chain fees - but excluding land purchase and in use operational expenditure (which is not to disregard whole life cycle costs that are addressed by specific actions within the GCS but to acknowledge the challenges involved in validating the realisation of whole life cycle based efficiency savings before the end of the current parliament). This definition represents a working definition and is subject to possible further refinement by the Joint Data and Benchmarking Task Group as part of the ongoing development of the programme benefits tracking methodology.

Task Group 2 – Lean Standards

Key objective is to focus on a process for the definition, selection and consistent embedment of standards across Government that contribute to and incentivise high levels of project team integration and construction safety.
