Summary of Programme Performance

Year	2016-17
Programme Score	B
Risk Rating	Low

What support is the UK providing?

This is a three-year programme that supports three lines of effort across the Eastern Africa region:

- Support to current African military operations;
- Building regional capacity to deliver peace support operations;
- Security sector reform that delivers improved internal security.

The focus of the programme is on improving coordination of the security sector in the region. A mixed delivery model matches elements of contracted-in specific expertise (Cranfield University; and civilian experts) with UK capacity – available through the East Africa Defence sections and the British Peace Support Team, supported by the Ministry of Defence's Short Term Training Teams.

Summary of progress and lessons learnt/actions taken since last review

Formal assessments against the outcome indicator milestones have not been made due to lack of systematically collected and verifiable evidence. However, anecdotal evidence from interviewees and stakeholders suggests that some positive progress is being made but that this is not consistent across all the components.

Summary of recommendations for the next year

The following, in the Review Team's opinion, represent the highest priority recommendations:

- Improved high level evidence base and clear link to operationalise strategic direction into tactical effect;
- A single governance line and funding source;
- Good enough commonly-agreed outcome level monitoring and evaluation approach and regular collection of evidence;
- Enhanced CSSF programme management capacity;
- Greater clarity on the role of civilian advisers and a broader approach to assessing value for money.
