

Export of objects of cultural interest

Statistical Release - 16 November 2010

Purpose of release

This statistical release presents the figures related to the export of objects of cultural interest, which will be included in the report on the operation of the control of such objects which the Secretary of State is required to present to Parliament under Section 10 (1)(a) of the Export Control Act 2002 (the 'Act').

These figures are collated by the Export Licensing Unit at the Museums Libraries and Archives Council on behalf of the Secretary of State.

Current export controls

The export controls are derived from both UK and EU legislation. The UK statutory powers are exercised by the Secretary of State under the Export Control Act 2002. Under the Act, the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport has made the Export of Objects of Cultural Interest (Control) Order 2003. Export Controls are also imposed by Council Regulation (EC) No 116/09 on the export of cultural goods. The control is enforced by the UK Border Agency on behalf of the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS).

Export Control Act 2002

The Export Control Act 2002 replaced the export control powers contained within the Import, Export and Customs Powers (Defence) Act 1939 legislation on strategic export controls. It provides a transparent framework and increases Parliamentary accountability. It is the main UK legislation on export controls for cultural goods.

The purpose of the export control is to give an opportunity for the retention in this country of cultural goods considered to be of outstanding national importance. The system is designed to strike a balance, as fairly as possible, between the various interests concerned in any application for an export licence - for instance, the protection of the national heritage; the rights of the owners selling the goods; the exporter or overseas purchaser; and the position and reputation of the UK as an international art market

The Reviewing Committee on the Export of Works of Art and Objects of Cultural Interest

An independent Reviewing Committee on the Export of Works of Art¹ was first appointed in 1952 following the recommendations of the Waverley Committee. It succeeded an earlier Committee of the same name established in 1949, comprising museum directors and officials, which heard appeals against refusals and, from 1950, all cases where refusals were recommended. The Committee is a non-statutory independent body whose role is to advise the Secretary of State whether a cultural object which is the subject of an application for an export licence is of national importance under the Waverley criteria². The Committee consists of eight full members, appointed by the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport, seven of whom have particular expertise in one or more relevant fields (paintings, furniture, manuscripts etc), and a Chairman.

Key messages

During the period covered by the report (1 May 2009 to 30 April 2010):

- there were 10,437 applications for export licences, covering a total of 35,688 items;
- 1,501 of these applications were for the export of manuscripts, documents or archives;
- 20,713 items, with a total value of £1,183,937,807, were issued with export licences after they had been referred to expert advisers;
- 91 Open Individual Export Licences were in operation having been issued on 18 December 2007 to take effect for a period of three years commencing on 1 January 2008 and ending on 31 December 2010 to regular exporters for the following categories of objects: (a) 15 for the export of manuscripts, documents, archives and photographic positives and negatives; (b) 3 for the export of goods over 50 years of age imported into the UK within the past 50 years; (c) six for the export of UK origin coins; (d) 1 for the export of a Rolls Royce; (e) 1 for the export of an object more than 50 years of age which is in

¹ The Committee's terms of reference are:

- i) To advise on the principles which should govern the control of the export of objects of cultural interest under the Export Control Act 2002 and on the operation of the export control system generally;
- ii) To advise the Secretary of State on all cases where refusal of an export licence for an object of cultural interest is suggested on grounds of national importance;
- iii) To advise in cases where a Special Exchequer Grant is needed towards the purchase of an object that would otherwise be exported.
- iv)

- 10,770 items, with a total value of £7,194,621,875, were issued with export licences after the Export Licensing Unit was satisfied that they had been imported into the United Kingdom within the past 50 years. Of these, 1,587 were manuscripts, documents or archives covering a total value of £69,196,794
- 4,146 items, with a total value of £814,289,270, were given an EU licence without reference to the question of national importance because the items were either: valued at below the appropriate UK monetary limit; owned by a museum or gallery that has an Open Individual Export Licence (OIEL); manuscripts valued at £1,500 or less or coins valued at £500 or less and the exporter holds a valid OIEL; musical instruments exported for less than three months for use in the course of work by a professional musician; a motor vehicle exported for less than three months for social, domestic or pleasure purposes; a foreign registered motor vehicle exported following importation for less than three months for pleasure purposes.

Items referred to the Reviewing Committee on the Works of Art and Objects of Cultural Interest by Expert Advisers

- In 2009-10 22 cases were referred to the Committee. Of these, seven were withdrawn before they reached the stage of consideration by the Committee, one gave rise to issues which are still being resolved and the other 14 cases were considered .
- Of the 14 cases considered by the Committee, 13 met at least one of the Waverley criteria and four of these were starred as a sign of their outstanding importance.
- 13 cases were referred to the then Secretary of State for deferral and he accepted the Committee's recommendations on 12 of them.
- The aggregate value of the 13 items deferred was £71,488,361.97.
- Of the 13 cases where items were deferred, one was subsequently withdrawn and six resulted in acquisitions by institutions or individuals in the United Kingdom, of which one was starred.
- The six cases where items were purchased have a total value of £10,119,674.47 (value price at deferral), which represents 14 per cent of the total value of objects placed under deferral.
- Export licences were issued for the remainder of the six items which have a total value of £60,813,750.

Next release of data:

Statistics from 2010-11 will be published in the last quarter of 2011

Methodology:

The Export Licensing Unit at the Museums Libraries and Archives Council records all export licence applications made and export licences issued in the UK for the export of cultural goods outside the UK. Its database records the following information: number of applications for individual export licences received and the date of receipt; number of individual export licences issued and the date of issue; number of items to which individual export licences or applications relate; total value of those items as given by the applicant; the type of licence issued (EU or UK), whether it has been referred to an adviser or not and whether it is temporary or permanent a description of the items; the name and address of the applicant and the owner and the country of destination.

The database has an inbuilt programme that extracts the information required to produce the statistics contained in this release by way of “reports”. The number of Open Individual Export Licences issued and in operation at any one time is recorded on an excel spreadsheet. This records the type of object they relate to; the name and address of the holder; the date of issue and the date of expiry.

The statistics gathered from the database and the excel spreadsheet together with further details of the objects found to be of national importance have previously been published annually in the Export of Objects of Cultural Interest 2008-09³⁰.

The Code of Practice for Official Statistics and specifically the Principle on Confidentiality set out practices for how we protect data from being disclosed. The Principle includes the statement that the Office of National Statistics’ (“ONS”) outputs should “ensure that official statistics do not reveal the identity of an individual or organisation, or any private information relating to them, taking into account other relevant sources of information”. More information can be found in National Statistician’s Guidance: Confidentiality of Official Statistics and also on the Statistical Disclosure Control Methodology page of the ONS website.
