Dear consultee,

Re: CONSULTATION ON MOVING INLAND WATERWAYS INTO A NEW CHARITY IN ENGLAND AND WALES

1. We are writing to invite views on the proposed New Waterways Charity which will take over responsibility for the inland waterways that are currently managed on behalf of the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs.
2. Waterways deliver considerable and extensive benefits ranging from stimulating regeneration in our inner cities to the public enjoyment of the rich natural environment.
3. Our intention with the creation of a new charity is to enable the waterways' potential to be realised and their future safeguarded. The Government's proposals will further enhance the public benefits of inland waterways by widening the involvement of stakeholders. This reflects the Government's Big Society agenda of which the civil society is an important part. It will enable people to have a real say in how their local waterways are run.
4. This consultation document has been developed under the aegis of a Project Board which includes representatives from Defra, Her Majesty's Treasury, the Office of the Civil Society, British Waterways and the Environment Agency. We have also taken account of the wide variety of views expressed by stakeholders at focus groups, workshops and other meetings during 2010.
5. The following documents can be found on Defra's website:
<http://www.defra.gov.uk/consult/waterways-1103/>
 - Consultation document
 - List of Consultees
 - Impact assessment
6. We welcome views and comments from all of you with a potential interest in our waterways i.e. members of the public, waterway authorities, non-governmental organisations, local authorities and communities and user groups. We are making the consultation document available as widely as we can, including through community and other local websites. If you are aware of anyone or any organisation that might be interested in seeing and commenting on the consultation paper but is not listed, please let us know (via the contact point in below) and we will also seek their views.
7. While we welcome your views on any of the content of this consultation document we have included a number of specific questions which it would be helpful for you to answer. We envisage holding workshops during the consultation period to consider stakeholders' views; we will also convene a meeting of the Inland Waterways Stakeholder Forum at which the detailed proposals will be discussed.

INVESTOR IN PEOPLE
